Senate Bill: NMT Intervarsity Chapter Camp Expense Request

NMT Intervarsity is requesting funds to cover the travel for our Spring Break retreat to Catalina Island off the coast of Los Angeles, with most of the emphasis on the cost of gasoline and the hope that some of the meals can also be covered as well. The retreat itself is of major importance to Intervarsity as a national community of college students with Christian beliefs, as it allows for the members to go to a space away from the common distractions of life, bond with other Intervarsity members from across the nation, and spend time focusing on building a strong and healthy religious relationship. The members who have gone in the past still discuss it to this day as one of the most impactful and important weeks of their lives.

Attached is a complete breakdown of the cost estimate, but I include a summary here. Our estimates for prices were calculated with the following assumptions: the same number of students that went three years ago would join this year's retreat (a total of 41 students), the prices on gasbuddy.com gave the most reasonable prices for gasoline along the shortest route of the trip, and that the average meal would cost $9 with a total of seven meals being needed for the duration of the trip. There was also the problem of lodging in Los Angeles for a night, so reasonably priced hotels were included in the cost estimate as well. The grand total came to be just under $9,500.

That amount is a lot to ask for, so we instead are going to officially request the total for gas prices and the majority lodging, rounding to an even $5,000 to at least help the costs for the majority of the students going on the trip.
